Overview

Wasatch Venture Fund, a Draper Fisher Jurvetson affiliate, is a Salt Lake City based venture capital firm, specializing in seed to early-stage, information technology and biotech investments. In addition to Utah, Wasatch maintains offices in San Mateo, California, Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Mesa, Arizona.

Since the Funds inception in 1994 by Zions Bank, our mission has been to search out best of breed technologies in companies with the management and market to achieve success. To accomplish this we bring the collective resources and experience of our partnership, our advisors and our extensive industry contacts to ensure our portfolio's success. Although we remain open to all areas of technology, we are particularly excited by the opportunities biotech in general and bio medical devices in particular represent in this state.

Over the past eight years, via Funds III, II, and I Wasatch has invested in 71 companies and has seen 13 successful exits, including 3 IPO's and 10 acquisitions. Just 6 months ago, Wasatch led a Series A investment in Lumidigm, Inc., syndicating a total of $5.3 million for the company through relationships we maintain with Draper Fisher Jurvetson, Intel Capital, and others. We are currently targeting several other firms for potential investment by year-end and look forward to bolstering our position in the biotech space in the years to come with the addition of an Associate to our staff with a biotech/biomedical background. Our limited partners include leaders in banking, professional services and institutions. These LPs add more than just their financial support, they provide strategic opportunities to our portfolio companies as well as support Wasatch's due diligence process.

One of the most accurate and dependable predictors of success is a good record of accomplishment. If you are looking for a partner with a history of success that will work collaboratively with you to grow your business, Wasatch can provide the trusted counsel of a team that has been there before and has succeeded. Choose Wasatch.
